

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

4.1. CONCLUSION

Business Culinary is a work that we all are not unfamiliar with in Indonesia. So many citizens in this country begin to start a culinary- related business even though the major that they took during universities are deviating from their business. Today, there are so many people competing with their culinary business that are interesting and become their primary business. Every week even every day there are still many people start opening their business from a restaurant, bistro until cafe or lounge. It makes me have to think twice harder so this business will last long. From this program, I can said that I've been learn more much, I learn that if I want to become a successful person I cannot learn in one place and have to experience in many ways. So that I can compared one to another and make my own decision.

From here I've been learn so much aspect, from designing my own restaurant, organizing menu, met many characters staff also customers, how to handle customer in appropriated way, budgeting, financial aspects until all about system and working flow.

So, I will always learn and continue to progress until I can become a successful person.

4.2. SUGGESTION

For me, my suggest for entrepreneurship for me and for others, we must have a strong mentality. Being an entrepreneur not only we can be boss or dignity, but the more we have position the more our responsibility that we will bear. We have to think hard how we can survive in this industry when in out there are lots of rivals that will destroy us if we only seat around and do nothing.
